Character

A light, fresh and fruity wine, ruby-red reflecting a touch of purple. Its intense bouquet displays blackcurrant and blueberry aromas with a little cherry and a hint of vegetal notes. A slight initial sweetness and appealing harmony to tempt the palate, followed by intense fruit and a pleasing finish.

Producer

Celliers du Chablais

In Aigle in the heart of Chablais, the cooperative-run traditional winery produces traditional Vaud wines as well as modern, innovative and award-winning wines with heart and soul. General Henri Guisan of Celliers du Chablais bought a large portion of the vines around the world-famous Château d'Aigle. The vineyard of 135 winegrowers, who keep their yields at a minimum for quality reasons and harvest manually, is processed as naturally as possible. The unique terroir is responsible for the floral and mineral aromas and the fruity flavours of the Celliers du Chablais wines are thanks to the many hours of sunshine.
